

FAITH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Congregational Covenant
Sunday, June 20, 2010

Our Promises to God

We promise to pray, worship, and read scripture, thanking God and seeking God's guidance.

We promise to serve Jesus Christ our Lord and to work together as the Body of Christ.

We promise to open our hearts and minds to where the Holy Spirit is leading.

Our Promises to Each Other as Members of the Congregation

We promise to respect, care and pray for each other and those outside our walls and throughout the world.

We promise to welcome, invite and include members and guests as we would in our own home.

We promise to listen with an open mind to the words and ideas of others, ascribing to them the best possible intentions and motivations.

We promise to express concerns and differences of opinion lovingly, sharing them with the appropriate persons or groups.

We promise to break out of our comfort zones and connect across generations, worship styles and cultures.

We promise to continue to share our gifts of time, talent and money to support our church mission.

Our Promises to Our Church Leaders

We promise to pray for the pastor(s), staff and officers as they devote themselves to serving God and our congregation.

We promise to anticipate change and trust our leadership to guide us with the help of the Holy Spirit.

We promise to be open to our new pastor's leadership and direction.

We promise to welcome our pastor and her family as members of this church family.